FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WHAT CAN BE LEARNED FROM EISENHOWER'S WISDOM DURING WWII?

Gettysburg, PA—August 29, 2015. This fall, Tigrett Corp. is offering free to local businesses an opportunity to develop and enhance their leadership teams. The inspirational ½-day workshop centers on Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's remarkable ability to build a "team of rivals" into a focused, multi-national, multi-services team for the D-Day landings in Europe.

"Eisenhower presents a powerful model to anyone who has ever had to step into a leadership role directing people who are older or more experienced, and who have strong opinions (and large egos)," said Antigoni Ladd, Academic Director for Tigrett Corp.

Participants will take away lessons that are invaluable to the bottom line in business today. They will examine Ike's preparation for leadership—his values, his education, his work and family relationships, his military training and goals—and compare their own preparation for leadership in stressful times. Program and registration details are available on-line at <http://www.historicleadershiptraining.com/register-diy-workshop.html>.

The Eisenhower leadership program is scheduled for Wednesday, October 14 at the Gettysburg Hotel in downtown Gettysburg, PA. Early registration is recommended due to limited seating.

Gettysburg-based Historic Leadership Training by Tigrett Corp. provides executive training using memorable field trips, movie recreations of historic events, and roundtable analysis. Programs are designed to focus leaders on building harmony and cooperation within organizations and focus employees on the organization's mission.
